ANGELA JOHNSON

Ms. Angela Johnson is a first-grade lead teacher at the Greek American Institute. She earned her bachelor's degree in Biology with a minorin Philosophy from Baruch College and is currently completing her Master of Science in Teaching (MST) in Inclusive and Special Education.

Throughout her academic and professional journey, she has gained experience in elementary education, special education, tutoring, and scientific research. Her passion for education stems from her desire to help children develop confidence, curiosity, and a lifelong love of learning.

Ms. Johnson believes in creating a warm, structured, and inclusive classroom environment where every student feels valued, supported, and encouraged to reach their full potential. She emphasizes differentiated instruction, hands-on learning, and positive reinforcement to meet the unique academic and social-emotional needs of her students. She values building strong relationships with families and fostering a classroom community rooted in kindness, respect, and cooperation.

Outside of the classroom, Ms. Johnson enjoys fitness, reading literature, learning languages, traveling, and exploring different cultures.
