MAYA TASIC

Ms Maya Tasic has more than twenty years of experience teaching art, she continues to feel passionate about guiding young students as they discover their talents and turntheir dreams into reality.

She is the owner of Creative Center Maya Tasic, an art school for children and adults in Throgs Neck, where they promote creativity and self-discovery, nurturing not only skilled artists but also innovative thinkers who can contribute their distinct viewpoints to the world of art.

She is especially happy to bring this culture of creativity and self- discovery to the primary school of the Greek American Institute, where her own children learned their first lessons and have since gone on to attend The Bronx High School of Science.
